In response to the request for information from various news media Jenkintown Borough would like to release the following statement.

As part of our continuing commitment to provide the very highest quality public safety services for the residents of Jenkintown, the Borough engaged the services of a strategic communications firm last summer to assist us in reviewing a variety of options and how best to present them publicly if we chose to go forward with them. That work was completed in the fall, and the contract in question ended. To be clear, at the current time there has been no decision to go forward on this issue, but the challenges still exist, such as the cost of the current public safety system and its sustainability over the long term. For this reason, in the future, the Borough will continue to explore all options to provide public safety services at an affordable cost.
